

Drawflix

Drawflix is a unique social platform for movie loving creatives to express their feelings on the hottest blockbusters, using a classic MS Paint style toolset to compete for weekly honours.

It's a social hub for the people that want to illustrate their responses to popular movies, but do not have a platform to share their artwork with others.

Combining aspects of popular websites such as Deviantart and Instagram, the site celebrates art of all levels - from detailed illustrations through to the deliberately and hilariously primitive.

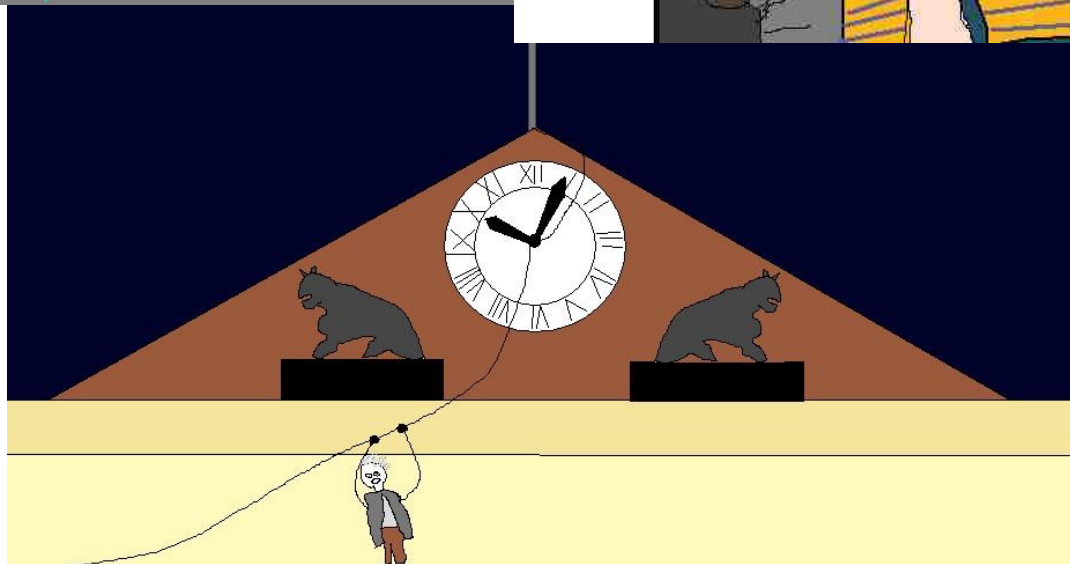

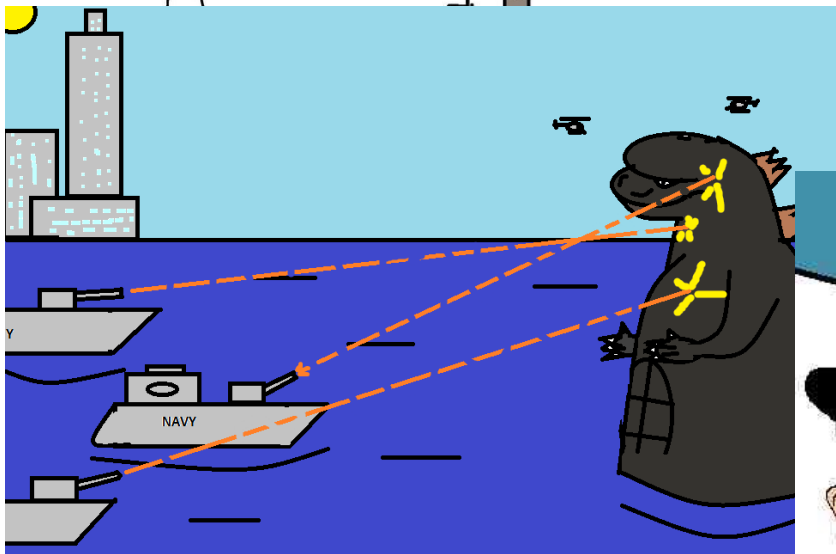

Each week, users compete by responding artistically to the top 5 grossing movies worldwide, as pulled from iMDB.

Users show their appreciation for the work of other artists by liking their images, with the most popular artwork taking pride of place on the site's main page for the following week.
